

Our perimeter fencing systems can be adapted to other environments that have nothing to do with fall protection in building enclosures. An example of this is this perimeter netting installation on a tennis court.

At Visornets, we are manufacturers of safety and security nets that can be adapted to different environments and functions. For example, on the perimeter of a tennis court.

This ensures that the protective net absorbs the impact of the ball, restricts its movement and allows it to fall to the ground without leaving the perimeter, but above all without bouncing, invading the athletes' space and hindering the activity of the sport.

Do you want to know more about this type of nets? More information here